

Presents Sarah Stremming on Hidden Potential building confidence, addressing the stress, and tailoring your training to bring out the potential of your reluctant dog.

June 18-19, 2018 held at Fun Fur Paws - Mt. Vernon, WA

Sarah Stremming is a dog trainer, a dog agility and obedience competitor, and a dog behavior consultant. Her credentials include a bachelors of science degree in psychology from Colorado State University, and more than a decade in the field of dog training and behavior. Her special interest area is problem solving for performance dogs. She is committed to education and growth in the field of dog training and attends the innovative training conference, Clicker Expo, every year. She coaches teams online, travels to teach internationally, and is a faculty member at Fenzi Dog Sports Academy. She feels that her informal education in dog training and dog sports is best explained through her competition dogs.

Hidden Potential is all about dogs that have been labeled as shut-down, down-stressers, shy, or low-drive. Dogs that run fast in training but slow in trials, dogs that have good days and bad ones, dogs that give up on training, and dogs that seem to prefer the couch to the clicker. This course will help you to build confidence, address the stress, and tailor your training to bring out the potential of your reluctant dog.
